PHOSPHORESCENT DRAPERY. The Latest American Fashion.

glowworm gown is the latest women's fashion to attract the attention of crowds, which now frequently follow women in American towns, who wear the new-style " sex appeal " garments. Miss Beresford, of Carlisle, Pennsylvania, is the inventor of the phosphorescent drapery. She appeared at night on Main-street, Carlisle, in a dress which , had evidently been treated to a phosphorous bath. It was disphaneas, and had a glow that gave an ethereal appearance to the young woman.

A mob followed her, which soon increased to include almost everybody in the town. A motorman and conductor of a passing tram-car abandoned their posts and joined their passengers in purming the human glowworm. Miss Beresfird ultimately escaped from her escort without damage.

The Rev. H. T. Walsh, poster of the Church of Our Lady of Mercy, at New Britain, announces that he will refuse admission to communion to any woman who approaches the alter railing in a slashed or diaphanous gown. He adds that he will refuse to receive at the parochiel rooms women similarly clad."

THE NEW YORK TRAGEDY.

PRIZET'S AURIST AND CONFESSION.

New York, Sept. M. The Rev. Hais Schmit, assistant rector of St. Joseph's Catholic Cha ch, this been arrested and charged with the murder of the woman whose mutilated body was thrown into the Hudson River twelve days ago. The vicius body has been identified as that Anna Aumaller, a Comestic servantformarly employed in the Parish House of St. Boniface's Church, of which the accused was assistant rector at the time of the alloged murder.

According to the police report Schmidt attempted suicide when arrested, and afterwards confessed. A pillow wrapped around the dead woman led to the apprehension of the prisoner.

a marriage licence is ned in February last. The police say prisoner told them that he went through the marriage ceremony with the dead girl, and himself acted both as priest and bridegroom. Schmidt added that when the girl's condition rendered further concealment impossible he killed her because he loved her.

DISSECTED IN A BATH TUB The body was dissected in a bath tub with a buicher's saw and a cleaver in an apartment of the ho se in which the couple had lived. Five bundles were made of the dismembered body, and Schmidt is quoted as saying that he made fige trips across the Hudson River, each time throwing one of the bundles from the ferry boat whi st in

When arrested to cay, in St /Joseph's Pariah House Schmidt neked to be excused for a moment. He was followed by the police, who succeeded in wre-ting from him a rezor with which they believe to i tend-

The story of how the police traced the murder is remarkable. A pillow that was found here a tig on which was the brand and size of the pillow. This was submitted to a number of manufacturers until one was found who was able to identify it as one of the only dozen that were made. This dozen was bought by a second hand deale in New York. The latter said he had sold only two of the pillows, but he could not remember the identity of the purchasers. Later, however, he found Schmid's name in his books. According to the police Schmidt's confession was to the effect that he went to his appartments shortly after midnight on Sepr. 2. He awakened the woman and cuis ber thrust. Later. when diemoinhering the dody, he tasted the still warm

We think no one will question the assertion that the traffer powers here mentioned are the nations or rulers of earth. God has ordained nations and set pur kings and rulers in order that justice, may be administered and peace established among mon. Boo also verses 3.7. Therefore it is clear that every person who accepts the Bible as his standard of living will be a lawdiving citizens, an honour to his country men, both high and low, from the king on his whrom to the humblest peasant in his poverty, to come to Christ for salvation and peace, nowhere outside the theoremy of ancient Israel do we find these invitations addressed to civil governments. Individuals are called upon to acknowledge God and to embrace religion as a vital part of their lives; but not so with kingdoms and republics. On the contrary, the Bible makes it most emphatic that the realm of the state and the gealm of the church are entirely separate: . .

While the Scriptures appeal to all-

A CLEAR DISTINCTION.

We muste the following incident from the life of our Saviour: "Then went the Pharisees, and took counsel how they might centangle him in his talk. And they sent out unto him their disciples with the Herodians, saying, Master, we know that thou art true, and teachest the way of God in truth, neither carest thou for any man; for thou regardest not the aperson of men. Tell us therefore, What thinkest thou? Is it lawful to give tribute unto Caesar, or not? But Jesus perceived their wickedness, To the founders of the Chinese Re- and said, Why tempt ye me, ye hypopublic, the administrators, legislators crites? Show me the tribute moneyand judges, together with the thinking, And they brought unto him a penny. portion to the amount paid up on progressive men of all classes throughout And he saith unto them. Whose is this the entire nation is this appeal respecimage and superscription? They say unto him, Caesar's. Then saith he unto them. Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's." Matt. 22:15-21., Christ here establishes a clear distinction between Caesar and God; between the homage due Caesar and the homage due God; that is, between the civil and the religious powers, between the duty we own our country and the duty we owe our God. " But many there are who so far confuse the respective spheres of church and state that they advocate placing the Bible as the ultimate source of appeal in all matters of givic morality," and would have this principlo stated in the constitution of republics. "Let us notice carefully how this theory would work out. The eighth commandment says, "Thou shalt not steal" and the state could enforce that command without difficulty; but when we come to the tenth precept of the law, which reads, Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife," etc., how could a civil state be governed by such a law? Another article of the decalogue says, "Thou shalt anot kill." while a divine commentary on this command asserts Lat " Whosoever hatoth his brother is a murderer.' 1 John 8:5.

CRIME AND SIN.

Now it is perfectly clear that a man may covet a thousand things; be may hate an enemy to the point of wishing he might take his life; but so long as he steals nothing, kills no one, commits no act of violence, the government will not punish him, for he committed no crime. He has broken the Law of God and must suffer the penalty of that law, but in the eyes of the State In the same connection we read: "Sub. he is still innocent. This brings us to which it was committed. Again, the Bible deals with 862 the government of God is a moral goverument; his law is a moral law and ny to what extent a certain individual has violated this can only be measured by Him who reads the heart. God judges, the man, not by outward, act of appearances, but by the metive that prompted the act. But civil governments can in justice deal only with civil affairs and offences. The function of theustate is to preserve order in society, to punish outward aers of violence and to guard safely the rights and property of its citizens. Therefore it should be manifest to all that the sphere of the Bible is religious; that its teachings deal with righteousness, sin and the condition of the heart; and that to use its precepts as the foundation for constitutional law would be "at variance with reason and contrary to the teachings of the Inspired Book itself. "Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's and unto God the things that dre God's. To show further the inconsistency of incorporating the Word of God as Manual of Guidance " in civil matters, the us suppose that a man steal $100from his neighbour, is arrested, tried and found guilty. But before the sentence is pronounced by the judge, the nan-repensa-is-forgiven-by-the-Lord

Now, if the court is to carry out Scriptural instruc tion in this case, the judge must also forgive him, count him as innocent and let him go free; for the Statute Book mys: "If thy brother tresposs against thee, rebuke him; and if he repent, forgive him. And if he trespass against over again. It requires no furthe argument to show that such a systemwould be destructive of all civil govern ment, for herein is demonstrated conclusively that no nation, or state can ever rightly enforce the commandments of God as such or set up the Bible as its code of laws.

RELIGIOUS ESTABLISHMENT ALWAYS

If we grant a nation the right to enthrone the Christian Religion in its fundamental law, with what right could we protest against any nation that establistics another form of worship in the same manner? But because from an cient times the kingdoms of earth have invariably favoured some form of religion to the disparagement or intelerance others, generation after generation has witnessed religious persocution.

If it is right to establish any religion by law, then Nebuchadnezzar king of but if foreign salt is permitted to be Babylon was quite within his legitimate imported into China freely, the Gabelle phere in setting up the golden image will lose a good deal of its value. admit. Dan. 8:26-29. The same principle is further emphasized in the deliverance of Daniel from the day of lions. Although Daniel had directly disobeyed the bdiet of King Darius, he could say truthfully: " My God hath sent his angel, and hath shut the lions' mouths, that they have not hurt me; forasmuch as before him in nocency was found in me; and also before thee, O king have I done no hurt. Again," when the disciples were forbidden by the Jewish authorities to preach in the name of Jesus, they replied: "Wilether it be right in the sight of God to hearken unto you more than unto God, judge ye. For we can not but speak the things which we have seen and heard." "We ought to obey God rather than men.!" Acts 4:19,20 5:20. The highest obligation of man is the homage and service due his Creator. While the Scriptures clearly enjoin that we should respect and obey 'civil rulers so long as they do not invade the domain of religion, it is no less emphatically taught that when human laws contravene the Word of God, we should be loval to God at all costs, even if it involves the disregard of man-made decrees or statutes. Therefore let the state rule well its own house, but at all times refrain from intermeddling in spiritual matters and thus obviate the danger of conflict.

WOMAN'S HEROISM IN ALPINE TRAGEDY.

THRILLING SCENE ON THE TOP OF

Vierna, Sept. 14. The identity of the man who lost his life while ascending the Rax Mountain, near Vienna, has now been ascert inid. He roves to be a teacher of French, Count Maurice" de Lelient l. a member of a Bellian family. The young woman accompanying him at fir t refused to disclose his identity. but she has now told the whole story of the peculiarly tragic affic. The couple were both experienced mounaineers. They spent thece days climbing he Semmering Mountain, and on Briday started to ascend the Rax Mountain by "I repent" and he must be forgiven, the heademical path, which is exceedingly difficult and dangerous. While clinging to chains a short distance below the summit Le'ietal was seized with cramp in both arms. He asked his companion to massage them, and in spice of their perilous position on the perpendicular fact of the mountain

Cure for Gout. Rhoumstic Gout and Gravel.

MAGNESIA

The Universal Remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Headsons, Heartburn, Indigestion, Sour Eructations, Bilious Affections.

A Natural Remedy

Time was when disease was thought to be due to the direct influence of earl spirits, and exorcism and magic were invoked to cast it out.

Science has taught us wisdom. The evil spirits exist still. We call them "Disease Germs," and they also must be cast out. Once lodged in the stomach or intestines, fever with its hallucinations, or biliousness with its aches and pains, is the result.

ENO'S

is the approved remedy for driving out disease germs. Its action is quick and thorough. It clears the intestines, rouses the torpid liver to new life, stimulates the mucous membrane to a healthy action, and cleanses and invigorates the whole digestive tract.

It may be safely taken at any time by young or old. It is very effective in the early stage of Diarrica he removing the irritating cause. Be prepared for emergencies by always keeping a bottle in the house.

Mr. Hawker writes of the school at Leulumocga:-" The pons asinorum was an insuperable obstacle to these Samoan lads, but shorthand, so far, sppears to be a delight. I have adapted Pitman's system to the Samoan language; not an altogether easy task, as it is based upon the consonants, whereas in Samoan consonants are few and never doubled and combined; vowels predominate, many words of several syllables not having a single consonant."

> DOES MONEY MEAN HAP-PINESS AND POVERTY MISERY?

Six James Yoxall's striking suggestion that "they must develop the idea that the educated ploughman or bricklayer could remain a ploughman or bricklayer at a ploughman's or bricklayer's pay, but with the added comfort of a good education," is well worth thinking about in this connection. It would indeed be a great thing if this idea could be popularised, but unfortunately the middle classes do their best to prevent it spreading. The idea that is preached in novels, money is happiness and that poverty ring had been stolen from a jewel case in is misery; and he must be a superior her house. She has since found the ring in 5.30 p.m. - Hongkong Church Missionary ploughman or bricklaver who can see through the fallacy of it. We know that there are hundreds of educated men working at bricklayer's if not at ploughman's wage, as teachers, ministers, and writers, whose toil is lightened by their culture and their learning, but it will be long before that form of career will be accepted as an ideal in England.

Secondary and higher education receive at the hands of Dr. Griffiths no detailed treatment. Still there is the pregnant phrase "State-aid" in the higher branches, "should be restricted to those who are able to profit thereby. Sir John Gorst is even more definite with his dictum that " secondary instruction should be available, for those fitted to profit by it." The State must use means of selection and climination. #### OPIUM SMUGGLING. / Clayer Ruses.

Yesterday a man took delivery of ten cases from the s.s. Amerika. The opium farmer, however, had received certain information regarding the cases, which purported to contain tea and rolls of cloth from Kwong Chau Wan. The goods were to be transhipped to the s.s. Yuen Sang, and consigned to Manila. When the authorities opened the tea. chests, opium was found, but after unrolling the cloth to the length of about fifteen yards, it was found that the centre of the bale had been cut out, and was filled $174. with tine of opium. Alfogother 1,680 tacks were found. It is computed that about $800 worth of cloth had been destroyed in this manner in the attempt to smuggle the drug into Manila. A search was afterwards made at 34 Des Voux Road West, where a tin box was found containing thousands of labels, corresponding with these on the seized boxes of opium. At No. 5, Bowrington Road East, Wanchai, was found a large quantity of empty opium tins in a godown where goods had recently been packed.

The ten chaes seized were taken to the Central Police Station, where they were scarched by Chinese excise officers. So cleverly was the opium hidden, however that the officers reported that they could find nothing. Mr. Hoggarth, of the opium farm, afterwards went to the Central Station, and unwound the cloth and found the contraband. Scret. Cockle had detained the man in the meantime for being in unlawful possession of the cloth as he was taking delivery if it, and he attempted to swallow the bill of lading, but was prevented. He was afterwords charged and on being brought before Mr. Wood this morning, pleaded guilty. A fine of $2,000 or si months' imprisonment was imposed.

Inspector Dymond was patrolling West Point last night, and stopped a man who was carrying a basket in a suspicious monner. A search was made, and the backet was found to contain 25 tacls of propored opium. Mr. Wood fined the man $1,500, or six months' at the Magistracy this morning. The defendant was in European clothes, and the basket was similar to those which are usually carried by members of bathing parties."

H.M.S. TRIUMPH DELAYED BY DEFECTS.

The battleship Triumph, which has been fitted out at Devonport for service. on the China station, to which station she is also taking relief crews, was to have left Plymouth after a steam trial. for which she went into the Channel on September 10, but she returned to the Sound two days later in consequence of small defects having developed during the somewhat prolonged trial. Whilst the vessel was undergoing this test it was found that the new oil baths with which she had just been fitted for lubricating the shafting gear were not working properly, and the bearings were becoming overheated. It was consequently decided to return to Plymouth to Lave the defect dealt with. The Triumph went up harbour and secured alongside The Pall Mall Gazatte, commenting on the North Dockyard. The annual became promoted by the Hongkong Ministoring Children's Lengue was held this afternoon up the Volum teer Hendquarters. Fortunately weather was fine and ecol, and there was a good attendance at the opening coronneys, swhich was performed by Lady Roes, Davies, who was accompanied by the Chief Listice, Sir Wm. Rees Davies. The grounds had been prottily decorated with flags, and the stalls were attractively not out around the ground. Part of the parade ground had been set apart as a tea garden, which added to attemetiveness of the scene. Mrs. Jordan, the Howerary Treasurer, and Mrs. Irving, the Honorary Scoretary, did great deal of work in connection with the bazaur, and the success of the function must have been gratifying to them. and to the remainder of the committee. Lady Rees Davies, in opening the manur, said: Bazaars are usually held for the premotion of churitable objects. and there is none nobler than one to promote the happiness and welfare

The Charity Commissioners of London have sanctioned a scheme submitted to them by the Corporation of London for the administration of a bequest made to them many years ago by an entire stranger, Signor Pasquale Favale, for the annual bestowal of marriage portions for poor respectable girls born in the City. The bequest has remained in abeyance for a considerable period in order that the fund might sufficiently accumulate to carry out the testator's wishes. Trustees have been appointed. They are the Chamberlain, the Town Clerk, and the Comptroller. The income of the trust is sufficient to give annually £12 to three young women between the agos of 16 and 25, born in the City, on their marriage. If there are more applicants than three, the selection is to be made by lot. The generous donor made somewhat ecceptric bequests in other directions

MR. SHIW'S PLAY AS A TIXT.

Roy, R. J. Campbell on "Androcles."

NOT A DURLESQUE RUT FULL OF TRUTH.

Mr. Burnard Shaw's new play, "Androcks and the Lion," is very ably holding the controversial field. It has been severely criticised as a burlosque of a serious historical subject and an offence to the feelings of religious people. There are others who laugh at it in a complimentary way—but perhaps a little anxiously—while "insulting," "vulgar," and "offensive" are a few of the expressions hurled against it. Ou a recent Sunday evening the play figured in a a rmon preached by the Rev. R. J. Campbell at the City Temple. Clearthe ly the play has made a deep impression on his mind. He used one scene of "Androclos and the Lion "-the speech of Lavinia to the Roman captain-to illustrate the Eternal Man. It had been said by some, Mr. Campbell explained in his sermon, that the play was a burlesque of the sufferings of the Christian martyrs under the Roman Empire in the early conturies of our era.

"That is a mistake," he declared emphatically, "though I do not wonder it has b on made. Mr. Shaw never can help introducing an element of cumedy into the most serious subjects; but in this instance the real point of the play is any thing but a burle-que of what the martyrs

LAVINIA'S DECLARATION. "It is brought out," especially in the speech of Larinia to the Roman captain who has brought her and her fellow victims to the scene of execution. He begs her to save herself by throwing a grain or two of incense on the Altar of Diana, or some other deity, in the Roman Pantheon. For answer she tells him that if Diana stood to him for what was pure and elevating instead of what was fool and debasing to his manhood, she would do it as readily as she would for Christ. But that was just the point at issue. Diana stood for nothing of

"To which I avinia replied, "Ah | if we knew that we should have come to be gods ourselves."

GOD IN MAN. The lesson of this, Mr. Campbell said was that it was the God in man that reached up to God, and made it possible for man to recognise the Christhood of Christ. Asked by a "Daily News" represents tive "for more ample views" on the play than those expressed on the one scene used as an illustration in his sermon, Mr. Campbell said that Mr." Shaw had only himself to blame if the play was mistaken for a burlesque. "Mr. Shaw." he said, "cannot refrain from fun, and though he does not mean. to shock his audience by seeming to make light of things that are intrinsically great and worthy of reverence, he does do it. The play is full of magnificent truths, and I thoroughly enjoyed its humour and the whimsical method and treatment."

Sir H. Tree's "Jeseph

PROTESTS AGAINAT CENSOR LICENSING

Sir Dyce-Duckworth cannot understand how such a play as "Joseph and His Brothren" could pass the censorship of the Lord Chamberlain. Writing to the "Times," he says: "If it is permitted to continue I can only regard such a licence as a further indication, amongst many, n decay in our national character, and forming a dangerous set-back to the reverence and respect due to the Book which, whatever interpretations modern research may have given parts of its, is still, and has long been, the guide and comfort of racks, last night by the members of the the best lives we have known in the world. I hope the Church will not keep silence on this matter, which I regard in the light of a national disgraca. The Church (through the current numher of the "R cord") does not keep silent. The "Record" complains that it understood the play was to be simply pageant, but that "it is a drama (judging by the Press notices), and the writer of i has not been content to abide strictly by the limits of the Biblical marrative. drawn largely upon his own imagin tion. Diverse Criticisms of the Drama.

INTERESTING LETTELS. No play produced in recent years ha aroused more critical discussion than The Picture of Dorian Gray, now running at the Vaudeville Theatre. Scores of letters are being received by Mr. Sydney Harcourt, manager for M Lou-Tellegan, and by Miss Constant Louisbery, who evolved the drame from Gecar. Wilde's weird romance. Some of these letters are frankly condemnatory; others; are extreme in culogy; a few are abusive. "I am not surprised at either the lavish praise or vehement denunciation which has been accorded to our play," said Mr. Harcourt; "no author has received more extreme and diverse criticism than the writer of the novel on which it is founded. But am convinced that his literary reputation has suffered quite as much from the injudicious praise of his admirers as from the vindectiveness of his critics. It is somewhat During a discussion in a Leicester refreshing, however, to read in a leading public-house as to whether Hongkong was religious organ (the Christian Common broken over the head of one of the participation. SOME LETTERS. "Bit to return to my letters; as you see, some of my correspondents," said .M: Harcourt, "stigmatise the nevel of Dorian Gray as a 'morbid and slimy book'; and s 'nauseous, vicious, and decadent,' and in attacking the book they are, of course, equally attacking the play. From the opposite camp come the insistent assertions of the brilliancy of the novel, of 'the beauty and style and literary excellence that illuminate every page, as one lady writes. 'It is a thing of genius which reaches out to the sublime, writes "The truth, of course, lies between the two extremes of opinion," said a clergyman of eminence to whom the question was submitted by a Standard representative.

"I knew Wilde pretty well, but I do not care to have my name mixed up in any controversy, so please suppress it. The idea of the book is as old as conscious. human thought-it shows the i exerable consequences of deliberate sin on the soul and the body of the sinner. The connection with Joseph, for which the touch of fantasy by which the fatal process is registered on the picture, and not on the man, is the one touch of real originality about it. When he wrote it Wilde himself did not take the story seriousle; in these days he took nothing seriously, and yet unconsciously he foreshadowed his own tragedy. He surely realised this when in De Profundis he wrote of the 'note of doom ' that runs through Dorian Gray. It is an ironical fact that he who in his pride used to declare that art need have, and should have, no councction with morality was in spite of himself a 'moralist,' for Dorien Gray, if read aright, is emphatically mor I book : but to read it aright one must find the key in the subjectivist pages of De Profoundis, which reveal the author as the real original of Dorian Gray." WILDE'S CONFESSION.

reference to Oscar Wilde's confession of his thoughts white serving his imprisonment in Reading Gool. He wrote:-" I remembered when I was at Oxford saying to one of my friends as we were strolling round 'Magdulen's narrow birdhounted walks, one morning in the year before I took my degree, that I wanted to cat of the fruit of all the trees in the garden of the world, and that I was going out into the world with that passion in my soul, and so indeed I went out, and so I lived.
